Notes from the producer:

The property has been passed from father to son for 5 generations. In 1965, Joël Delaunay settled down and gives the domain the name that we know today. He began marketing in bottles in the early 1970s and expanded to retail and export sales in 1980. Back in 1991, I left in the Bordeaux wine school in Montagne-Libourne to spend my BTS viticulture-œnologie in 1993. In 1994, I did my internship for six months in Saint-Emilion and then I came back to work on the family estate in Touraine, the Domaine Joël Delaunay, and became a co-owner with my parents in 1998. For 50 years, he continued to enlarge the Domain by purchasing vines and constructing a sales cellar and modern winery. Commended by the International Wine Challenge 2018. Obtained 86 points in Gilbert & Gaillard Wine Guide 2018.

WineWise Notes:

Pale but definite pink wine artfully blended from Cabernet Franc, Côt and Gamay to a delightfully sprightly effect. It sports that inimitable Loire tension between fruit, acidity and earth components. Thierry Delaunay has firmly established the estate he runs with his father in the forefront of this sprawling appellation. The village of Pouillé where he resides is home to several of the top Touraine growers and would seem to be exceptionally privileged, perhaps by dint of its relative elevation. His Sauvignon has developed a devoted following over the last few years for very good reason.
