WineWise Notes:

Who would have thought that Malbec could be rendered so sheerly charming and pleasurable? The trick was a light extraction, a short maceration with pigeage and remontage, and relatively early bottling. Meet the friendly face of Cahors' famous "Black Wine". This new vintage is indecently joyous and gulpable.

Notes from the producer:

This is an old family vineyard. The vineyard is planted on a varied and beautiful terroir (limestone plateau, gravel, clay...). Benoit Aymard in 2014 began to work commercially with a little part of the vineyard. Berrit Aymard is Oenologist, he has worked for different companies in France, USA and Argentina. He specialized in Malbec and restored the family vineyard with the desire to produce quality in relation to the terroir.

WineWise Notes on Clos d'Audhuy:

We have never been particular fans of Malbec's expression in Cahors, but this recent discovery caused us to re-examine our prejudices. Benoit Aymard took over the small estate founded by his grandfather as recently as 2014. He did not want to reinvent the wheel, so to speak, but he was interested in putting his own stamp on the family's traditional wines. The land he inherited is already very complex geologically-speaking, and also relatively steep for the region. But he recently planted some very sparse parcels at 260 meters in elevation on limestone-rich soils dating to the Kimmeridgian era.
