Notes from the producer:

Château Vray Canon Boyer is owned by the Coninck family. The vineyard is on the southern slope of the famous hillside of Canon, and, thanks to its magnificent exposition, it produces red wines of a perfect maturity, which are distinguished by their softness, body, finesse and bouquet. Their indisputable quality brings them much closer to the best Burgundy, with whom they have great affinities.

WineWise Notes:

We have made something of a speciality of sourcing nicely-aged examples of classic European wines that we can offer at a bargain price. But this one takes some beating! From one of the top handful of estates in the privileged sub-appellation of Canon Fronsac comes this insanely inexpensive example of perfectly mature red Bordeaux with more than a hint of breeding to it. Plummy fruit and delicious flavor.
